LONDON, April 10 (Reuters) - The death of former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher has sent a 74-year-old song, "Ding Dong! The Witch Is Dead", flying into the UK charts, figures showed on Wednesday.

The song from the 1939 film "The Wizard of Oz" was top of Amazon's most downloaded chart on Wednesday after a social media campaign to promote the upbeat track as a way for detractors to "celebrate" the death of Britain's most divisive postwar leader.

Labour's ranks say Defy the poll tax law

Thousands of Labour members and party activists in 150 constituencies have signed the Party's anti-poll tax pledge to refuse to pay the hated tax.

By Ian Bone
The Labour Party has a long history of opposing the poll tax. In 1989, the Party's anti-poll tax pledge was signed by thousands of members and activists in 150 constituencies. This was a landmark moment in the Party's history, as it showed that a large number of Labour members were prepared to defy the law and refuse to pay the hated tax.

The poll tax was introduced by the Conservative government in 1989. It was a regressive tax that hit the poor hardest. It was widely hated and led to a massive campaign of non-payment. The Labour Party's anti-poll tax pledge was a key part of this campaign.
