No Glory in War Review of 2014

Matthew Crampton reviews a year of activity countering attempts by government, politicians and historians to glorify the First World War in the year of its centenary.

Taste the Sainsbury’s sentimentality: but what really happened in the 1914 Christmas truces?

Now the Christmas truces of 100 years ago have been sentimentalised by Sainsbury’s supermarket, Jeremy Clarke says we need to remember the reality.
